

What is Sex?

Is it when genitals are joined together or stimulated?

Is it when a man becomes aroused and masturbates to the image of a naked woman?

Is it the mental thoughts of sexual interaction that are stimulated when a man holds in his head the memory of a partially clothed woman who was seen while walking down the street?

Is it when someone is triggered by porn actor to 'act out'?

Is it having genitals stimulated through a one night stand or a prostitute?

Is it simply penetration – perhaps through a hole in the wall into an unknown 'partner's bodily orifice as he/she stands on the other side of the wall?

Is it penetrating a blow up doll, a child, an animal, a fake plastic or bodily orifice?

Is it being triggered by the images of naked men or women in magazines, TV or internet?

Is it being raped by 'consent'?

Is it watching others being raped?

Is it women being raped in the street by a stranger?

Is it the act of when a man or woman is having a doctor's medical internal examination?

Is it masturbation, choking, slapping, pinching, torturing supposedly 'rough' sex?

Is it the rape of a little girl by her father?

Is it a man being raped in prison?

Do these actions become 'sex' if consent is supposedly given?

It is well known that people can become anchored to unusual objects and to then consider those objects to be sexually stimulating to them. Humans can be trained, just as stud animals are, to become sexually aroused on signal. eg Stallions are trained to mount a drum for semen collection without a mare being present.

As humans, we too can be trained to be sexually aroused by certain triggers. Some people are sexually aroused by looking at shoes or other inanimate objects.

Many people have their sexuality hijacked and they become anchored to inappropriate objects without ever knowing that they were manipulated. Emotional trauma and sexual abuse can cause a victim to become anchored to objects or people or situations that they would not have 'bonded' to if they had not been subjected to complex trauma earlier in their lives. Sexual hijacking and anchoring are strategies that are deliberately used in porn and is a main theme of porn because it is profitable for the porn merchants. Injured men and women can be exploited through manipulation inherent in porn.

Rape is not sex. Sex can't be purchased. All genital activity outside a loving, committed relationship is actually sexual abuse if it's not a medical action done to help a person, Sex is mutually desired in a loving, permanent and safe relationship.

Safe and authentic sex is an emotional and physical communication between two people who respect and love each other. Unlike what porn promotes, sex is not just a detached physical interaction where genital organs are touched or focused on - otherwise an internal examination at the doctors would qualify as 'sex.' Women don't give 'sex' to their husbands when they begrudgingly 'allow access.' Prostitutes don't sell 'sex' to their customers. They hire their bodies, but they withhold their minds. Rape isn't sex. Vaginal or anal examinations aren't sex. Sex-trafficking slavery isn't sex.

True sex is the emotional and physical communication between two people who love each other and who are in a permanent and mutually respectful relationship. Sex is not just physical contact of genitals. People are more than physical and so is real sex.

Normal, true sexual interactions aren't meant to be a kind of entertainment nor should sexual intimacy be regarded as a spectator sport or a right.

Sexual joy and pleasure is the reward of those who share an intimate and loving emotional bond and work on maintaining that loyal relationship. It is obvious from the sexual 'revolution' experiment from the 60s, that sexual interaction only works to benefit and stabilise a society when it is part of a loving, committed, permanent relationship.

Sexual interactions, if not manipulated by contraceptive chemicals and interventions, will often result in pregnancies. For centuries women would refuse to have intimate sexual interactions with uncommitted men. A woman would refuse the sexual advances of a man who didn't love her enough to marry her. His advances would be considered an insult and an offence to her dignity. A woman knew that it was the love that joined the man and woman that was the insurance for her future welfare and for the resulting babies too.

Now that contraception is available, women seem to have accepted the lie that the 'playboys' (women abusers) were telling them for years - that emotionally disconnected sexual activity is simply an entertainment, a spectator sport (porn), a right that they are entitled to receive (or take).

Any woman who doesn't accept being robbed of her womanly dignity and to being sexually objectified is punished by being labelled as 'a puritan' or 'jealous' or 'ugly' etc. A woman must 'put out' or at best, she will be ignored and socially 'invisible' and devalued. A loving relationship is no longer considered to be a necessary requirement for sexual intimacy and any resulting pregnancy is easily terminated and the baby disposed of as being a non-person. With the devaluation of the woman, the baby is also devalued. So much for women being empowered by the sexual revolution.
